

The Landaulet

The carriage house at Stratford Hall stores a number of different carriages. The landaulet was made by the coachbuilder Lewis Leslie and was used by Marquis de Lafayette, a French military figure who aided the colonies during the American Revolution. He used this carriage on his second visit to Albany, New York in 1825 on his way to Boston to lay the cornerstone of the Bunker Hill monument.